CSAC Applauds Federal Government's Extension of 100% Reimbursement of Project Roomkey

SACRAMENTO – The California State Association of Counties (CSAC) applauds the federal government's decision to extend their 100% reimbursement of Project Roomkey through the end of 2021.

"This is great news for Project Roomkey," said CSAC President and Sonoma County Supervisor James Gore. "This extended commitment means that counties can continue to get more people into housing and the services and programs they need."

The federal government announced today that they will fully reimburse states for housing of at-risk populations, as well as for services such as emergency medical care and vaccination response. Since the start of Project Roomkey in April 2020, over 42,000 of California's most vulnerable residents have been sheltered and a recent study concluded that there was an 81 percent success rate in the isolation/quarantine course.

"These funds are desperately needed to continue the effort of California's Counties to protect some of their most vulnerable residents," said CSAC Executive Director Graham Knaus. "We appreciate the state and federal government's continued public health support."

CSAC appreciates the Governor for leading the effort with the Association and the California League of Cities to request the federal administration to extend the 100% reimbursement of Project Roomkey through the end of the year.

California State Association of Counties (CSAC) is the voice of California's 58 counties at the state and federal level.
